The aim of the Conference is to promote contacts between scientists and to develop new ideas in fundamental research. Therefore we will bring together experts and young scientists working in experimental and theoretical aspects of nuclear physics, particle physics (including astroparticle physics), and cosmology. ICPPA-2016 aims to present the most recent results in astrophysics and collider physics from the main experiments actively taking data as well as any upgrades for the methods of experimental particle physics. Furthermore, one special workshop will be held within the framework of this conference: «SiPM development and application».

The working language of the conference is English. You can find more information about accommodation in Moscow below in the Accommodation section.

Scientific Program

The conference will cover the following topics:

- Nuclear physics and particle physics:
  - nuclear physics,
  - high energy physics,
  - heavy ion physics,
  - neutrino and astroparticle physics,
  - gravitation and cosmology.

- Cosmic rays:
  - very high energy cosmic ray physics,
  - cosmic rays in the near terrestrial space,
  - astrophysical sources of gamma-rays,
  - solar cosmic rays and cosmic rays modulation,
  - cosmic rays and dark matter.
